

Juliet's diverse work history has taken her through a number of roles: from Project Manager for a live events company to an improvisational comedienne, to a Human Relations trainer for the Los Angeles Police Department...even to Israel as a liaison in a Palestinian/Israeli peace project.

She has been a columnist, a grief counselor, and the co-author of two books in the Path Training Series, The Communication Path and The Wellness Path. She is the managing director of the Young Stars Project, building holistic learning schools for children in Uganda. And her company, Talking on Purpose Inc., helps organizations from top management to front line employees, nurture the human capital that is behind every organizational success.

Please welcome...

(Any comment you would like here to give your quick thoughts about the presentation)

Now we will take a few moments for you to fill out your evaluations and remember there is a brand new Video iPod just waiting for one of you! And, nothing says “thank you” like a warm lead, so if you know a group to whom you would like to refer Juliet, please do share the information with her.

(Allow participants to fill out evaluations)

After we wrap up (or during the next break, which ever makes sense for your agenda) Juliet will be available to us in the back of the room to chat with you and to sign copies of her two books so please visit her there.

(Your choice of comment to wrap up)
